Bird 2 made a careful study of the conditions under which the arsenical stain on mercuric chloride paper may be best obtained and identified, with especial reference to the interference of the hydrides of sulphur, phosphorus, and antimony. Although his work is extremely suggestive of a quantitative application, he himself considers that the test is only approximately quantitative, in that the stain obtained from a given amount of substance, say beer, may be shown to be greater or less than the stain representing a fixed limit of arsenic for that amount. He also regards it as a true negative test. Treadwell and Comment3 compared the stain obtained from the action of arsine on argentic nitrate paper with a series of stains from definite quantities of a standard solution of arsenic. The method, applied by these authors to the detection of arsenic in mineral waters, is said to have given good results. Dowzard,4 after describing a modification of the Gutzeit test which allows the detection of minute traces of arsenic in a small volume of solution, suggested the preparation of a standard set of stains, which should be kept in a tightly stoppered bottle in a dark place. 1 Arsenical Poisoning in Beer Drinkers, p. 88.
