Excerpt: . . . and he may assign it so as to vest the right of action in his assignee. A plea that before the assignment to the plaintiff, the former guardian had been removed and a new guardian appointed in his stead, is no bar to an action by the assignee. A guardian is the authorized agent, appointed by law to take care of the wards estate and manage his affairs. An administrator represents the deceased person, succeeding to his right, and to the extent of assets to his liabilities. The legal title to the assets of the intestate which remain in the hands of his administrator administered, upon his removal, become vested in the administrator de bonil non. The guardian is liable to account for the income and profits of his wards estate. But where a contract is entered into with him, though in his fiduciary capacity, . . .
